On March 12, 2023, President Biden signed Executive Order 14176, titled "Safe, Secure, and Trustworthy Development and Use of Artificial Intelligence." The order outlines the Biden Administration's approach to AI, emphasizing the need to protect civil liberties, privacy, and democratic values while promoting innovation and economic growth. The order also sets out a framework for AI safety, security, and transparency, and establishes a new interagency working group to coordinate the government's AI efforts.

The order is organized into several sections, each addressing a different aspect of AI. The first section, "Principles and Priorities," sets out the Administration's guiding principles and priorities for AI. The second section, "Safety, Security, and Transparency," outlines the Administration's approach to AI safety, security, and transparency. The third section, "Civil Liberties, Privacy, and Democratic Values," addresses the Administration's commitment to protecting civil liberties, privacy, and democratic values. The fourth section, "Promoting Innovation and Economic Growth," describes the Administration's efforts to promote innovation and economic growth. The fifth section, "Establishing a Framework for AI," sets out the Administration's framework for AI, including the creation of a new interagency working group.

The order also includes several provisions related to AI safety, security, and transparency. For example, it requires the Department of Justice to conduct a comprehensive review of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) AI programs and to report back to the President by June 30, 2023. It also requires the Department of Justice to conduct a comprehensive review of the FBI's AI programs and to report back to the President by June 30, 2023.
