E-Verify released a reminder on Sept. 27, 2019, that certain employment authorization documents (EADs) issued by United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to Temporary Protected Status (TPS) beneficiaries from Sudan, Nicaragua, Haiti, and El Salvador are automatically extended through Jan. 2, 2020. We reported the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) notice of their action to extend the TPS designation for these individuals earlier this year (See Temporary Protected Status Extended for Sudan, El Salvador, Haiti, and Nicaragua). The same DHS announcement promulgated the automatic EAD extension.

The chart below lists the expiration dates printed on the EADs that have been granted an extension:

2017	2018	2019
07/22/2017	01/05/2018	01/05/2019

11/02/2017	01/22/2018	04/02/2019
	03/09/2018	07/22/2019
	11/02/2018	09/09/2019

Employers should not reverify the I-9s for employees with these EADs until Jan. 3, 2020.
