Permanent Medicare Doc-Fix Entering Critical Week: The Medicare physician payment formula known as the Sustainable Growth Rate (SGR) or the Doc Fix, which was passed in 1996 as a means to control Medicare costs, may finally be repealed based on Congressional negotiations this week. Since 2003, Congress has spent nearly $170 billion in short term patches to avoid untenable cuts imposed by the payment formula that has required policymakers to find cost savings through other programs in what has become at least a yearly scramble to prevent significant reductions in physician pay. The most recent patch will expire on March 31st.

In its stead, a bipartisan agreement (H.R. 1470) that has been negotiated largely by House leaders over the past few weeks could pass the House later this week, most likely Thursday. The measure would provide 0.5 percent payment increases for Medicare physicians until 2019 and then maintain payments levels until 2025. Additional reimbursement would be available for physicians who utilize electronic health records, improve quality, and transition to alternative payment models (APMs) that span patient-centered medical homes to accountable care organizations (ACOs).

Additionally, the SGR replacement bill would provide a two year extension of current funding levels for the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP)—the federal-state partnership that helps families find affordable health care for their children—that is set to expire at the end of September. As many state budgets set their funding cycles in the summer, it was imperative for Congress to provide an extension soon, as opposed to waiting for the end of the federal fiscal year. Some Senate Democrats, including Senate Minority Leader Harry Reid (D-NV) and all Democrats on the powerful Senate Finance Committee, including Ranking Member Ron Wyden (D-OR), have voiced their support for an SGR package that extends CHIP for four years as opposed to two.

In a letter released this weekend, Senate Finance Committee Democrats stated their discomfort with one of the negotiated payfors that would implement means testing for wealthier Medicare beneficiaries, increasing the amount they would have to pay for Part B and D premiums. Still, signatories indicated that the means testing would be easier to swallow should the CHIP program would be extended for a full four years.

Although stakeholder groups such as AARP have voiced their serious objections to means testing other groups that support CHIP, such as Families USA, have come out in support of a two year extension and called on Congress to finally pass a SGR replacement bill. How Senate Democrats eventually fall on this particular dynamic will be a critical element in moving the SGR replacement bill over the finish line as any bill will most likely require significant Democratic support to pass both chambers.

Also impacting a potential resolution of the SGR this week is consideration of the budget resolutions in both chambers of Congress. Last week House Republican leadership released its 2016 budget plan with details on how to repeal the ACA and overhaul Medicare and Medicaid. On March 19th, the House Budget Committee passed the bill in a party-line vote. Currently, the House is expected to vote on the budget Wednesday—meaning consideration could impact time available to take up the SGR later in the week. The Senate will also take up the budget this week, with consideration of an unlimited number of amendments, many of which likely address health care.

Implementation of the Affordable Care Act

HHS: 16.4 Million Americans Now Covered by ACA: The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) announced that 16.4 million previously uninsured Americans have received health insurance since the ACA became law. Of those 16.4 million, 14.1 million are adults who have obtained insurance since the first open enrollment period started in October 2013; the remaining 2.3 million are young adults who between 2010 and 2013 elected to stay on their parents’ insurance. Since the Obama Administration reopened the enrollment period, the number of insured is likely to increase.

Other Federal Regulatory Initiatives

DOJ and HHS Announce Results of Health Fraud Initiative: Attorney General Eric Holder and HHS Secretary Sylvia Burwell jointly announced the agency’s health care fraud prevention and enforcement efforts recovered $3.3 billion in taxpayer dollars in FY 2014 from individuals and companies that attempted to defraud federal health programs.

New VA Appointments: President Obama announced his intent to nominate two individuals for administrative positions at the Department of Veterans’ Affairs (VA). David J. Shulkin, currently president of Morristown Memorial Hospital in New Jersey, was nominated to be Undersecretary for Health. LaVerne Horton Council, currently CEO of Council Advisory Services, was nominated to be Assistant Secretary for Information and Technology.

HHS Releases Report on EHR Fraud Vulnerabilities: The HHS Office of the Inspector General’s report on EHR fraud vulnerabilities lists the top 25 unimplemented recommendations within HHS. It addresses EHR fraud vulnerabilities, including the failure to keep automatic audit logs and a need to develop guidance on the use of copy-paste features.
