Fraud & Abuse: 2017 Year in Review

In 2017, the United States government continued its aggressive scrutiny of the health care industry using a variety of anti-fraud tools and compliance requirements. Health care companies continue to face high levels of risk under the Federal False Claims Act and other fraud and abuse laws. Please join Polsinelli's Health Care practice for discussion of the important settlements, noteworthy cases, observations about trends, and what the industry might expect to see in 2018. Lastly, our speakers will provide their predictions for health care fraud enforcement in 2018.
