- On February 21, FDA issued a press release announcing the voluntary destruction and recall of a large volume of kratom-containing dietary supplements manufactured and distributed nationwide under the brand names Botany Bay, Enhance Your Life and Divinity
- The manufacturer of the products, Divinity Products Distribution, has also agreed to stop selling all products containing kratom
- As discussed previously in this blog, FDA has used its administrative detention power followed by seizure against large volumes of kratom containing dietary supplements
- In its current press release, FDA stressed the potential dangers of kratom as having opioid-like properties and indicated that there are no FDA-approved therapeutic uses of kratom
- FDA urged all manufacturers of kratom containing supplements to cease marketing and to submit New Dietary Ingredient Notifications to FDA for kratom prior to marketing
